

The Question that no one wants to ask

We have almost grown accustomed to the daily pictures of Arab and African asylum seekers flooding into Europe on a daily basis.

We have seen them on our T.V. screens; we have watched how masses of people walk towards the borders of Europe in the hope for a new life.

Many hundreds of thousands of mainly young fit man from war torn Syria, from impoverished Iraq and from other poor destitute African nations have set off on foot to Europe in order to find a better life.

The media as a whole has tried to provoke compassion in us so that we will become far more accommodating when we see their impoverished faces on our T.V. screens in order that we too we will open our borders for them.

But there is 1 question which no one has asked.

What kind of people are they really?

The fact is that the far majority of asylum seekers (over 70%) are fit young man below the age of 30. They are few woman and children. They are mainly young man who have either escaped the fighting, ran away from military conscription or who had the physical strength (as is the case with many Africans) to walk through the dry desert and survive the long journey to Europe.

But many of them also have families which they left behind. There are many fathers among them and they have left their children behind in a war torn country or in a crowded refugee center in Turkey.

They have left their wife's (being Muslims it could be quite likely that they have more than 1 wife) and their children behind in the battlegrounds of Syria and of Iraq, in a center in Turkey or in one of the many poor villages or towns of Africa.

A true man is supposed to be the protector of his family. His duty is to care for his children and for his parents when they can no longer look after themselves (there is no government welfare in any of those nations. The family has to provide for the young and for the old)

A woman on bare feet struggling with 3 children, beside her young man in raincoats and shoes. Not one of them seems willing to help! Do we really want such man in our country?

But in most cases they have simply left the woman and children to look after themselves. It seems as if many of those young man are only out to save themselves. Of course they will hope for a family re-union at some point in the future but at least for the time being they can be living under the protective welfare of rich European nations like Germany or others who are just as misguided. Every Muslim man on earth knows and understands the dangers which a woman has to face in his own country if she is not under the protection of a male, of a man. This could be the woman's father, the brother or her husband. But a woman must never be left to her own.

Those woman and children which are now left to their own are exposed to all kinds of dangers which they would not have to face if they would still be under the protection and in the presence of the young man who have fled to Europe like cowards!

Rape, sexual molestation and all kinds of abuse against woman is now so common in all the asylum centers because of the presence of those young man. But regardless of the visible impact which those people had on Europe so far, no one dares to ask the question: 'what kind of man are they'?

Sexual abuse and rapes have become so common in so many asylum seeker centers all over Europe because whenever a woman is left to her own she is there for the taking. Most of those rapes in these centers never even get reported at all. Most rape victims would be far too scared to report what has happened to them. Most of those women now live in fear. The 'safety' of Europe has been no protection for them!

Those man who have travelled to Europe on their own are fully aware that their own wife's and children face the exact same dangers back in their country or in the refugee centers in Turkey which those woman have to face in the asylum centers of Europe today.

They know their own culture, they understand what they did when they left their families behind, when they left behind exposed and vulnerable. They know the increased risk of rape and violence which those woman now have to face because they were left behind by those man.

Asylum seekers all over Europe have becomes centers of sexual violence and rape!

Woman (in particular non-Muslim woman) are there for the picking for anyone whose urges are simply too hard to control.

Recently there was a horrific incident in Austria. A young Iraqi asylum seeker raped a young Austrian boy (10 years old) in a public swimming pool. His excuse was simply that he did not have sex for a few month and that he needed to satisfy his sexual urges. There was no feeling of remorse, of guilt or of shame.

A man who is willing to abandon his own family in need will hardly contribute anything to the social fabric of the society which has so that kindly provided him with a shelter and with so much help and support.

It does not matter if the Pope has washed his feet or not (which he would only do in front of the cameras), on the inside such a man still lacks morality despite his clean feet.

Thus it must come as no surprise to anyone in Europe that Muslims are now over-represented in most prisons throughout the EU.

Frau Merkels conclusion was simple and straight to the point when she said that Germans must simply get used to more crime on the streets.

What will be next? Will Germans also be told to get used to more terrorism on their streets as well? Will they be told that suicide bombers on German streets will become part of the new Germany? It is only a matter of time before they will be seen in every city and town.

A man who is willing to leave his own family behind just for the sake of a better life for himself is either a selfish opportunist or he has simply no ethics at all!

Instead of granting asylum to such egotistical beings, the humane and responsible way to deal with this crisis would be to return those man back to their families so that they can be there to assist them in the hour of need.

It makes far more sense to return them all back to Turkey instead of filling the prisons of Europe.

Those who had already reached Turkey were no longer in any direct life threatening danger.

Turkish refugee centers are unaffected by the fighting in Syria or in Iraq.

And nobody needs to flee if they are already in safety!

In the centers of Turkey no one gets haunted by the sword of IS or by the guns of the Taliban.

Thus it makes so much more sense to support those people in the centers of Turkey or in the poor countries of Africa (as long as the money actually gets to those who are in need) than to allow them entry into Europe and by doing destroy the very fabric of European society itself.

Does Europe really want to fill its borders with such undesirable man who only think of themselves by leaving their families behind?

Once those people reach Europe they will only demand. We have already seen this trend in the centers itself. They will demand and continue to demand until they are completely disenfranchised with life in Europe itself for Europe will never be able to offer them what they had expected before they set off on that journey.

A disenfranchised young man is easy picking for radical Imams who will poison them on the inside and then use them to destroy Europe from within!

Most Europeans do not understand Islam at all!

They still compare Islam with other religions like Christianity, Buddhism or with other religions but they totally fail to understand that Islam is much more of a political ideology than it is a religion.

Islam is territorial! Islam does not seek the salvation of souls. Islam seeks territory! Islam craves for more and more territory instead! Islam needs territory in order to implement Sharia law. Sharia law is at the very center of the heart of Islam! Whoever does not understand Islam does not understand the importance of Sharia law. Sharia has to be implemented one day over the entire world. This is Allah's 'holy' command, this is his 'will' according to his word the Quran.

And Jihad is the holiest tool which the Muslim has available to bring about the implementation of Sharia over this world. Jihad is one of the holiest duties of every single Muslim on earth!

And precisely this will be the future of Europe! (Of Western Europe not of Eastern Europe thanks to Nations like Hungary or Poland and a few others whose leaders have long woken up to the reality of the Islamic political agenda which now threatens Europe)

And those man who are coming to Europe today will one day be ready for battle!

'Allah Akbar' (which means 'Allah is greater', a reference to the Islamic belief that Allah is greater than the God of the Christian and Jews) must one day be heard from the center of every city and town right across Europe as well as from every other nation on earth.

Until this day there will be blood on the streets! The real battle has not even started but the troops are slowly beginning to gather. One day they will receive their orders and then the real fight will begin!

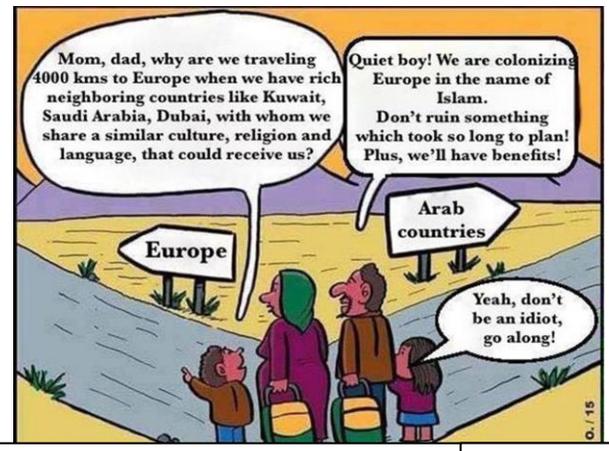

Destitute, humble, starving Muslim war refugees, (women and children?) in a $10,000 inflatable boat with a $5,000 outboard motor used for one trip and thrown away.

A million+ last year, two to three million in 2016.

These boats and motors don't grow on trees at the beach. So, who is paying for them?

We are watching a well-financed Islamic invasion of Europe.
